THE TSAVLIRIS GROUP has been active for more than 75 years as a maritime-focused business that has unique experience and know-how, including 50 years of performance in the international marine salvage business.

Our roots in the maritime industry go back to the 19th century when a great-grandfather of the present generation of senior Group principals was a seafarer. The Group's founder, Alexander G. Tsavliris was recently inducted into the Greek Shipping Hall of Fame, an elite gathering of the most celebrated of Greece’s shipping entrepreneurs.

Introduction to the Group

Today, the shipping industry knows the Tsavliris name primarily through the TSAVLIRIS SALVAGE GROUP, one of the world’s most active emergency response contractors for salving marine casualties.

Tsavliris has a record of handling more than 3,000 marine salvage cases, the majority of these under Lloyd’s Open Form salvage contracts. With purpose-built salvage tugs on permanent stations at strategic locations worldwide, the Group is committed to maintaining a modern global network providing rapid assistance to shipping.

Calling on decades of experience, the Group provides a ‘one-stop shop’ for any service related to marine salvage and towage - ranging from emergency response on the high seas to industrial project management for removing wrecks, as well as refloating vessels, recovering cargo and handling deep-sea operations.

In assessing major, challenging salvage services rendered by the Group, Lloyd’s Salvage Branch Arbitrators have frequently cited Tsavliris for its commitment and world-class professionalism and expertise as a salvor.

Historically, Tsavliris Group has been a high-quality owner and manager of dry cargo vessels. Between 1947 and 1988, the Group owned and operated a total of 41 dry cargo vessels from steam freighters to modern dry bulk carriers.

The fleet attained a size of 17 vessels at its peak. Our dry cargo ships have included vessels purchased in the second-hand market and vessels ordered by us as newbuildings.

Since 1988, the Group has continued to invest in shipping and the offshore sector with shareholdings in a further 25 vessels ranging from dry bulk carriers to tankers and offshore vessels. These have been with various joint venture partners who have provided the actual operation of the vessels.
Brief history

The present-day Tsavliris family traces its origins in shipping and business to forebears who were seamen in the 19th century, and to the purchase in the 1920s of a small coal-burning tug in the port of Piraeus.

The Group’s founder, Alexander G. Tsavliris, established his first company in London in 1939. After working in the UK Ministry of Transport during the Second World War, he founded Tsavliris (Shipping) Ltd and purchased his first ship, a 1,200-dwt tons collier, followed by larger general cargo vessels.

As a successful dry cargo shipowner, he returned to Greece in 1956, establishing Tsavliris (Hellas) Maritime Co. During the following years, the Group purchased a number of war-surplus Liberty ships and other second-hand freighters. By 1965 it had a substantial fleet of 17 ships.

The Group was already considered innovative in Greek shipping circles. For example, Tsavliris was among the first to enter into significant contracts of affreightment with exporters that ensured forward employment for a number of vessels serving contracts for transportation of various commodities, including large volumes of timber and sugar.

In parallel, the Group diversified into the demanding sector of tugs and salvage operations. In 1964, Tsavliris (Salvage & Towage) Ltd was established and within five years it owned and operated 30 vessels.

The new entity offered reliable port tug services in Piraeus and other Greek ports as well as making an international reputation for itself as a leading salvage contractor, able to respond to emergencies all over the world. At one stage it was the largest registered tug owner worldwide.

While expanding in salvage and towage, the Group continued to renew its presence in the dry cargo shipping industry. In the early 1970s, two newbuilding SD 14-type dry cargo ships were ordered from Hellenic Shipyards. In 1971, the 15,000-ton capacity vessels were delivered and would remain in the fleet for more than 15 years.

After the early death of the Group’s founder in 1973, his sons Nicolas, George and Andreas took over the reins of the business. They established the company Maritime Commercial Enterprises Ltd., and they continued strengthening both the cargo fleet and the salvage fleet.

The Group invested in modern second-hand dry bulk vessels as well as placing orders for new bulk carriers of 27,000 tons and 42,000 tons with shipbuilders in Brazil and Japan.

One of the shipping industry’s worst-ever market recessions began in 1981 and lasted until 1986. In this adverse environment, the Group decided to withdraw from the operation of cargo ships and by 1988 all the ships had been transferred to other ownerships. However, the Tsavliris brothers retained an interest in some of the vessels, as part-shareholders.

The Tsavliris Salvage Group has consolidated its reputation as one of the preferred emergency contractors in the world, consistently out-performing major rivals in terms of the number of Lloyd’s Open Form contracts performed per year.

In 1993, Tsavliris entered a long-term joint venture with the Russian state to add to its fleet the two largest and most advanced salvage vessels ever-built. Over the next few years, the former USSR navy tugs frequently proved their worth. For example, the Fotiy Krylov was instrumental in salving the containership MSC Carla in mid-Atlantic in 1997. The resulting salvage award was, at the time, the highest ever award by value under Lloyd’s Open Form.
In the year 2000, the Group set an all-time record of 50 Lloyd’s Open Form contracts in a calendar year. About that period, Tsavliris was achieving a market share of the global LOF salvage market of about 40%, allowing it to brand itself ‘Salvage Masters of the World’ in industry marketing.

Calling on decades of experience, the Group provides a ‘one-stop shop’ for any service related to marine salvage and towage - ranging from emergency response on the high seas to industrial project management for removing wrecks, as well as refloating vessels, recovering cargo and handling deep-sea operations.

Our extensive range of services includes:

Recent developments

The Tsavliris Salvage Group continues to maintain a robust presence in the salvage & towage market, renewing its fleet of tugs as necessary and when opportunities arise. The latest addition to the fleet was as recent as November 2015 when the multi-purpose deep-sea tug ‘Montgat’ was purchased. Renamed ‘Hermes’, it is stationed in the Greek port of Patras.

The Group has a long history of fruitful joint ventures and relations with sub-contractors that have assisted its global operations. A recent example is a joint venture since 2014 with Kamji Marine International that provides Tsavliris with valuable support in China. The new relationship has been welcomed by Greece’s Ministry of Shipping and the Chinese Embassy in Greece.

Tsavliris is currently planning to re-enter the dry cargo shipping market for the first time in many years to take advantage of a low point in the dry bulk market cycle that has made ships in this sector an attractive investment.

A third generation of Tsavliris family has entered the business and is already well-integrated into the management structure, adding to the Group’s dynamism, knowledge and prospects for the future.

Greek shipping remains a leading force in the global maritime sector constituting approximately 20 percent of the world’s fleet. In spite of the volatile markets and economic uncertainties, Greek shipping professionals have consistently adapted to changing conditions, seeking out growth and opportunity and addressing challenges head on.

With an average of 1,000 attendees each year, this event covers the latest developments and trends in international trade, dry bulk commodities, and the energy markets—framed against the broader backdrop of the global economy. Its main focus is on the various funding alternatives for raising capital among listed and private shipping companies. Experts will also explore the role of private equity and joint venture in shipping today including entry and exit strategies and will discuss investor attitudes in shipping today.

Capital Link’s Shipping Forums are well-known for their high quality and effectiveness. They are unique marketing and networking events attended by a large and high caliber audience of shipping industry executives, such as owners, commercial and investment bankers, investors, analysts, media, and a wide range of other industry participants.

Capital Link has made a major commitment to serve as an effective link between shipping, financiers and investors around the world. In this context, beyond the tailor made investor relations and financial communications strategies we formulate and execute for each of our clients, we have undertaken several initiatives aimed to enhance the information flow and raise the profile of shipping to the wider investment community.

We believe that with our shipping website, webinars, newsletters and conferences in Athens, London and New York, and as of this year in Shanghai, we have established a unique interactive platform of value and effectiveness that links investors, financiers, shipping companies and the broader shipping industry.

During the luncheon, the “2016 Capital Link Greek Shipping Leadership Award” will be presented to Mr. Andreas A. Tsavliris, Mr. George A. Tsavliris, and Mr. Nicolas A. Tsavliris of the Tsavliris Salvage Group, in recognition of their unique and extensive contribution to Shipping and Greece and for their overall outstanding service to the shipping industry made by them individually, as a family and by their company. The Tsavliris Group has been active for more than 75 years as a maritime-focused business that has unique experience and know-how, including 50 years of performance in international marine salvage. Mr. Nicky A. Pappadakis, Chairman Emeritus Intercargo, Chairman, A.G. Papadakis & Co. will introduce and present the Award to them.

We would like to thank the sponsors and media partners of our event for their support and contribution in making this event such a unique success. We are gratified to see that the majority of our sponsors are with us year after year and support all of our Shipping Forums, indicating the wide acceptance of the Capital Link Shipping Forums in the financial, investment and shipping communities.

Sincerely,
Nicolas Bornozis, President

Greek shipping remains important to the maritime economy, constituting approximately 20% of the world’s shipping fleet. This event will not only cover the latest developments and trends in international trade, dry bulk commodities, and the energy markets – framed against the broader backdrop of the global economy – but also review various funding alternatives for raising capital among listed and private shipping companies.

This investor-focused event will examine the latest trends, developments and challenges associated with master limited partnerships (MLPs). It also presents a networking platform for financial advisors, financial planners, institutional investors, fund and asset managers, analysts, other wealth management professionals, and major financial media.

The tenth installment of the Invest in International Shipping Forums, this investor-focused event allows a platform for high-level executives and shipping companies to share and examine the shipping markets in light of annual results. Institutional investors and analysts, financial advisors, bankers, financial media, and other qualified investors will be in attendance.

This annual event, playing host to 1,000 attendees every year, will not only address the benefits and challenges associated with using closed-end funds (CEFs) and ETFs, but will also present a networking platform for financial advisors, financial planners, institutional investors, fund and asset managers, analysts, other wealth management professionals, and major financial media.

This event provides investors with a comprehensive review of various shipping markets to investment communities in China and throughout Asia. It aims to provide investors with a comprehensive review and current outlook of the various shipping, marine services and offshore markets and in addition, cover topics of critical interest to shipping industry participants, financers and investors.

This bi-annual event brings together public and private shipping company executives, investors, analysts, financers, and other industry participants who are visiting Athens for the biannual Posidonia event from all over the world. The Forum will feature sector roundtable discussions dedicated to the dry bulk, tanker, container, LNG, and offshore sectors.
As the global derivatives market undergoes further economic and regulatory changes, the ability to effectively manage risks is becoming paramount, and the need for global collaboration is heightening. This program will feature a distinguished list of speakers who will provide an insightful global perspective on commodities, energy, and shipping.

Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) have seen an explosive growth in the industry since the emergence of the first ETF in 1990. The growing popularity of this investment vehicle has dramatically change the investment landscape among both institutional investors and financial industry professionals who provide wealth management services to clients. This Forum is an extension of our 15 year track record success of our Annual Closed-End Funds and Global ETFs.

In cooperation with the LSE, this event provides investors with a comprehensive review of various shipping markets to investment communities in the UK and throughout Europe. Shipowners, shipping executives, institutional investors, research analysts, industry experts, commercial and investment bankers, risk advisors, private equity and venture capital firms, high-net worth investors, and financial media attend this London forum every year.

With greater industry sophistication, awareness, and expectations, corporate social responsibility (CSR) is an increasingly important issue that shipping and offshore companies cannot afford to ignore. This forum will explore how companies can keep a competitive advantage gaining market share, attracting top talent, and preserving employee retention by adopting CSR policies.

U.S. and Greek businesses and investment communities will discuss the latest trends in the capital and stock markets while covering topics ranging from shipping, information technology, energy, banking, and finance to telecommunications and real estate. This event receives annual support from the NYSE Euronext and is held under the auspices of the Ministry for Development, Competitiveness, Infrastructure, Transport & Networks.

The average age of the fleet (as of September 30, 2015) is 8.3 years versus 9.6 years for the world tanker average. Trusted advisers to the shipping and offshore industries

With increasing challenges facing the shipping and offshore sectors, such as downward pressure on rates, increased regulation, challenging operating environments and enhanced counterparty risk, we understand how crucial it is to have support that is multi-disciplined, reliable and grounded in industry experience.

We advise owners, operators, banks, managers, insurers, mutual organisations and other industry participants in all aspects of their business which includes drafting and negotiating project documents (including complex charterparties, shipbuilding contracts and other agreements), joint venture and finance documents for major shipping and offshore transactions. Our expertise covers newbuilding and second hand tonnage and, in addition to our transactional practice, we have deep bench strength in all aspects of marine and offshore related dispute resolution. We also advise on employment law, regulatory compliance/investigations and taxation.

The breadth and complexity of issues which affect the global shipping and offshore industries demands legal experts who really understand the dynamics of these industries. This also very often requires a detailed understanding of the legal regimes governing operations at sea. Industry events, whether it be the Macondo incident, or the recent industry downturn, have highlighted the necessity for well written charterparties and contracts, and, when things go wrong, litigators who truly understand the offshore industry and environment.

Nicky Pappadakis
Chairman Emeritus INTERCARGO
Chairman, A.G. Pappadakis & Co.

Past Chairman of the International Association of Dry Cargo Shipowners born into a traditional shipping family with its roots on the Aegean island of Kasos, Nicky Pappadakis began his career with the family firm of A. G. Pappadakis & Co. in 1961, rising to head the company’s chartering and operations.

Over the years characteristics of the group have included an international reputation for service, a consistent interest in building ships new, and a strong focus on the human factor.

Mr. Pappadakis himself served periods at sea as an apprentice on tankers and dry cargo vessels, while he also qualified as an airplane and helicopter pilot. A keen interest in the aviation business has always run parallel to his love for shipping.

He was one of the first western shipowners to see the potential of China as a business partner and a builder of vessels, and he has maintained close relations with China ever since.

He has held numerous important industry roles in Greece based organisations. He is a past chairman of the Hellenic Marine Environment Protection Association, and until 2012 was a long-serving member of the board of the Union of Greek Shipowners. Mr Pappadakis says: “Shipping is the most environmentally friendly mode of transport and it is critical to serving the needs of the planet, although this is all too easily overlooked.

“We Greeks are fond of the saying ‘the sea gets sick but never dies’. This sums up our optimism that no matter what challenges are put in the way, there will always be a future for shipping.

“But at the same time every country’s richest asset is its young generation and without the next generation we do not have a future,” he says. “We must attract more young people to join the industry.”
